

Construction Worker

$35,880 - $61,650

BUILD YOUR FUTURE FROM THE GROUND UP.

Nebraska's construction industry is booming, offering a wide range of opportunities, from hands-on labor to high-level project management. Whether you're just starting out or looking to level up, here's what you should know.

According to Build Our Nebraska, construction jobs in Nebraska are expected to grow by 21% through 2026.

The median salary for a construction worker in Nebraska is $46,750 per year. This number can increase based on specialized roles or experience.

Pathway to Construction

- Formal education is not required
- Some construction companies offer hands-on learning
- Apprenticeship opportunities exist with on-the-job training
- 2-year degree programs exist at many community colleges

Training Programs

- Central Community College \(Hastings\)
- Western Nebraska Community College \(Scottsbluff\)
- Northeast Community College \(Norfolk\)
- Southeast Community College \(Lincoln\)
- Building & Construction Trades Council of Nebraska \(apprenticeship\)
- Laborers Local #1140 \(apprenticeship\)

Possible Employers

With Nebraska's construction industry growing, employers are hiring for general and specialty contractors and builders, residential and foundation specialists, and infrastructure and clean energy experts. Be sure to check job posting websites regularly for openings.